WRITING

Nowadays some people believe that all women and men play several roles while they live their lives. Let us speculate what makes them think so.

I would like to explain my point of view on this theme. In my opinion all people wear masks ranging from mood to behaviour. First of all, there is a role conflict. For example, women can be a mother and a boss at her work. It seems that she has a soft, friendly character at home while at work her character is ~~the~~ tough and demanding. Secondly, all people have different behaviour in some situations. For example, there are two workers in the company. The first worker is hard-working and he keeps on his job but another worker is lazy, work is needed for him only to earn money.

To sum up, there are lots of behaviours and social roles in our world and most of the people follow their social roles all their lives.
