Writing

One of my friends sent me this picture. There's his dog in his flat. He stayed his dog alone for some hours and that's what it did in the isolation.

Saying honestly, this dog is nice, but in that day it was very bored. And while my friend wasn't home it wanted to play. And it played with those things, what it found. It played with walls and floor.

His dog is always clumsy. It always break or drop something on the floor or on the ground. But this is ~~it's~~ the biggest of its drops. We always laugh of it, but this time is not funny. His dog broke all it saw. But what's more important is that it is alive and healthy. If it was my dog and it did something like this, I'd be very sad, but not angry. But how terrible this story seems, it ended well.

My friend is very regretted because of this, but he's not angry for his dog. He loves it. He will clean the room with his dog and do new walls.
